RE: Your Application for Licensure by Examination Exemption

Dear David Brent McMichael:

Congratulations! Your application for licensure has been processed and you have been approved for licensure as a General Contractor Qualifying Agent contractor by the State Licensing Board for Residential and General Contractors.

Please note that although you have been approved, your license will not actually be issued to you until approximately mid-November of next year. Because licensure is not actually required for you to practice as a General Contractor Qualifying Agent contractor in the State of Georgia until January 1, 2008, you will not actually need your license until that date. By issuing the license to you next year, it will be effective from January 1, 2008 until its expiration date, which as of now is May 31, 2010.

Additionally, sometime in September of next year, you will be mailed a form in which you will be required to update any changes that might have occurred in your information between now and then. In the meantime, we do ask that you notify us, in writing, of any changes that occur in your application information, especially in your mailing address.

Sincerely,

STATE LICENSING BOARD FOR RESIDENTIAL AND GENERAL CONTRACTORS
